How to read this report

Dear Parents,

Education at The Gaudium School is about actively combining challenging and enriching experiences with academic rigor and creative opportunities. We want our students to challenge their boundaries, reflect on experiences and explore the world around them.

It is, therefore, important that parents wholeheartedly support the school. Whether in the classrooms, on the stage, an event or on the sports field, we want our students to experience the excitement of discovering who they are and what they are capable of achieving.

We have high expectations of our students and they, in turn, have high goals for themselves.

Reports are a reflection of what we believe in, informs the learning community and reflects the question "How well are we learning?" It describes the progress and achievement of the students' learning, identifies areas for growth and contributes to the efficacy of the program.

On this note, I would like to present the report card of this academic year.

Let's work together to create an environment for development and action to make a difference in the world around.

Kind regards,
Anjalika Sharma
Principal, PYP

Aarush is a hardworking and positive learner who exhibits a positive outlook and attitude in the classroom. He explored different characteristics by posing different questions to support his inquiry. Aarush identified the different characteristics of the given personas in the given scenarios. He reflected the same using different graphic organizers independently. He enjoyed sharing the similarities and differences among himself, his friends and family. Aarush identified the different social and emotional characteristics displayed by the personas in the given scenarios. He shared about his interests, hobbies and abilities to his class. He shared his ideas during the scenariobased reflections and came up with interconnectedness of characteristics, interests and abilities with the person's identity. Aarush concluded the unit by connecting the role of his interests and abilities in his learning and development process independently. However he needs to actively participate in classroom activities without distraction and set achievable goals with respect to time.	Aarush Dixit was a confident and curious learner. He developed conceptual understanding about 'change' through classroom discussions and observing. He identified the sources of the different products and needed to be encouraged to come up with their origin. Aarush connected to the process of making a product by watching different videos. He attempted to identify the products, which go through change in his daily routine. Being actively involved as a listener and speaker will benefit him more to develop a better understanding of the unit. Aarush reflected and presented his learning using different graphic organisers. He identified and shared the reasons for the changes in the products as people's interests and likes. He exhibited his critical thinking skills while working on real life problems to create a useful product through the Design thinking process.
